Family Justice Center Evaluation Toolkit

Author(s) of Instrument:
Christine E. Murray
Catherine Johnson
Brittany Wyche

Key References: Publications related to this instrument

Primary Use/Purpose: This section describes what this instrument was designed to measure.

The FJC Evaluation Toolkit includes tools for three main evaluation strategies for Family Justice Centers: a professional feedback survey, requests for annual organizational data from FJC partner organization, and an annual week-long census. The specific tools for each, along with instructions for using them, are contained within the toolkit.

Background and Development: How and why this instrument was developed.

See links to the instrument for information on background and development.
Psychometrics (if applicable): Any testing of this instrument.

N/A. All instruments were developed through researcher-practitioner partnerships, involving multiple rounds of feedback between the researchers and practitioners prior to finalizing them. The second study referenced above (in press) contains additional statistical analyses for a 4-year comparison of results from the professionals’ survey.

Link to Instrument: Link to the instrument if available.

http://www.christinemurray.info/uploads/1/5/1/4/15142888/family_justice_center_evaluation_toolkit_-_from_the_guilford_county_family_justice_center.pdf or

http://www.christinemurray.info/violence--abuse-resources.html

Submitted by: Christine E. Murray submitted this instrument to the CVR Instruments Collection and certified permission to publicly share this instrument.